Title I Grants For Counties Announced

WASHINGTON—U. S. Congressman Carroll Hubbard of Kentucky announced that 22 counties in the First District which he represents will receive grants under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

This assistance for educationally deprived children has been designated by county as follows: Ballard, $49,322.46; Butler, $143,805.06; Caldwell, $127,100.18; Calloway, $113,237.36; Carlisle, $41,004.77; Christian, $601,646.43; Crittenden, $81,863.61; Graves, $194,809.12; Henderson, $247,841.91;

Hickman, $72,670.37; Livingston, $54,905.42; Logan, $246,466.37; Lyon, $29,184.89; McCracken, $376,609.49; McLean, $61,661.37; Marshall, $109,735.17; Muhlenberg, $264,998.77; Ohio, $204,002.36; Todd, $140,233.38; Trigg, $123,322.75; Union, $100,833.78; and Webster, $131,623.84.

Hubbard also announced that Christian County will receive $17,022.25 in additional funding under a special grant for educationally deprived school children.

NFO Plans Cheese, Potato Sales Here

The National Farmers Organization (NFO) says it will hold cheese and potato sales here Friday as well as in Fulton and Mayfield.

The sales are in protest of the difference between prices paid to farmers for dairy products and those paid by consumers in retail stores, Marvin Fornash, assistant NFO dairy director for the Southeast, said today.

Fornash said that the local sale will begin at 9 a. m. and will be held at Central Shopping Center and that the farmers would be offering Maine white potatoes at $3 for 50 pounds or $6 per hundredweight, as well as cheddar, Mozzarella and American cheese at $1.25 per pound.

Farmers will make about $3 more per hundredweight on their cheese than what they would receive in normal distribution, Fornash said. He said that potato farmers in Maine have been selling their potatoes at $3.25 under production costs.

Similar sales have been conducted at Louisville, Bardonia, Lebanon, Lexington, Georgetown, Erlanger, Latoni, Highland Heights, Hopkinsville and Bowling Green.

Organizations Plan Roadblocks For Easter Seals

Two Murray State University campus organizations—Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity and the Residence Hall Planning and Advisory Board—will set up roadblocks at three intersections in Murray Saturday, March 8, to collect Easter Seal donations from motorists.

Volunteers will be stationed at 12th and Sycamore, Five Points and 16th and Main from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Sheridan Talbott of Bardonia, president of Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Bob Hughes of Louisville and Carrie Stapleton of Kennett, Mo., co-leaders from the advisory board, will coordinate the roadblock project.

Mrs. Tonya Young, assistant director of housing and board adviser, is working with 64 students from the two organizations as the special events chairwoman of the county Easter Seal campaign.

Dr. Lloyd P. Jacks, Calloway County Easter Seal chairman, lauded the willingness of the university students to devote their time and energy to the project. He said their "unselfish spirit in a cause that benefits the handicapped is heartwarming."

The 52-year-old Kentucky Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., provides therapies, special education, hospitalization, recreation, camping and other services for both children and adults crippled by many causes.

Fran Curci, head football coach at the University of Kentucky, is serving as chairman of the statewide campaign, which runs through Easter Sunday, March 30.

County Judge for the past six years, told the group that he did not want to see Kentucky's system of higher education "feel the pangs of boom and bust that other states have felt. I don't want to see state funding going to the addition of buildings and structures while the students suffer because the faculty salaries are cut to meet rising expenses."

Hollenbach is opposing Gov. Julian Carroll and State Auditor Mary Louise Foust in the May 27 primary for Democratic nomination for governor.

Hollenbach said that he favors funding of the private college tuition aid program to help students not going to the state-supported universities. He also said he favors a program of tuition deferment for Kentucky veterans and expansion of the Higher Education Assistance Authority to aid students from middle-class families.

"Today too many Kentuckians are being denied higher education because family income is too high to qualify for assistance," the candidate said, "yet family income is too low to bear the high costs of education. The enlargement of the assistance program would insure that middle income Kentuckians receive higher educational opportunities."

Hollenbach told the group that he felt the tenure system for university instructors should be reinforced "so that faculty members will be guaranteed tenure under the guidelines set out when that faculty member was first employed."

Upholds City's Position

Appeals Court Reverses Decision On Land Dispute

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has reversed itself and upheld the actions of the City of Murray in reaching the decision that the city was within its rights to prohibit proposed construction which was outside the city at the time.

The decision climaxed a battle of several months between the city on one side and Howard Brandon and Jerry Stallons on the other.

Stallons had proposed the construction of a clean-up shop on a tract of land sold to him by Brandon. The tract was located north of Riverwood Drive on Highway 641 South.

In the original litigation, the City had contended that Brandon and Stallons failed to comply with the subdivision regulations in that they did not file a plat in accordance with legal obligations on the sale or subdividing of Brandon's property.

When construction began on the Stallons shop, the city employed counsel to attempt to stop the construction. A restraining order was obtained from the Calloway Circuit Court enjoining further activity on the land.

Judge James M. Lassiter later sustained the officials of the city in their action, and he made effective an injunction on further construction by Stallons.

After several legal steps and hearings, Judge Lassiter ruled that the City was within its rights and that the contentions of Stallons and Brandon were not well taken and entered a judgment to that effect.

Stallons and Brandon then sought, and received, relief from the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Judge Milliken determined on June 28, 1974, that the circuit court decision was in error and that the city had attempted to govern the use of land outside the city without the consent of the Fiscal Court, and upheld the arguments of Stallons and Brandon.

The Council, now supported by the Kentucky Municipal League, then requested a rehearing of the issue. An oral hearing was held last January 24, and the decision was announced in February. In late February the high court announced its judgment which, in effect, upheld the City of Murray and struck down the arguments of Stallons and Brandon.

There is no appeal from this decision, according to Nat Ryan Hughes, attorney for the City. Hughes said this morning that the court will issue a mandate on March 21, making official the opinion, and making it the latest opinion on the issue in the state.

Wholesale Prices Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by lower prices for farm products, wholesale prices declined in February for the third straight month, the government reported today.

The Labor Department's Wholesale Price Index for last month was eight-tenths of one per cent below January, the biggest monthly drop in the decline that started in December.

The February report provided additional evidence of a cooling off of the nation's inflation rate at the wholesale level, although wholesale prices in February still were 14.6 per cent above a year earlier.

Calley Lecture Tonight At MSU

U. S. Army Lt. William L. Calley, Jr. will present a free lecture tonight at 8 p. m. in Lovett Auditorium on the Murray State campus as part of the Student Government Association's spring activity program.

Calley recently had a 10-year sentence overturned after he had served 40 months at Fort Benning, Ga., as the only soldier found guilty of charges stemming from the My Lai incident during the Vietnam Conflict.

His lecture will be on the military justice system which exists today in the United States. The events surrounding the controversial soldier and his confinement have once again gained national attention with the late February resignation of two members of a 15-judge panel hearing the U. S. Army's appeal of Calley's sentence reduction.

The lecture has drawn considerable response from various sources with several television and radio stations planning to attend a press conference tentatively scheduled this afternoon at 5:30 p. m. in the Price Doyle Fine Arts Building. At least one national network has contacted Insight-Lecture Chairman Roger Watson, a Louisville, senior, about delayed coverage of some parts of the event.

Auto Sales Show Gain For First Time In 17 Months

DETROIT (AP) — For the first time in 17 months, auto sales have climbed above year-before figures, with an end-of-the-month surge by Ford Motor Co. and an upswing in the import auto market leading the way.

Ford was the only American maker to report an increase over the final February sales period of last year. The importers said rebates of up to $600 on some American cars and a renewed enthusiasm for smaller autos apparently helped push sales of their autos to record levels by increasing interest in the market as a whole.

Over-all, 682,330 autos, including imports, were sold in February. That compares with a February 1974 total of 681,700. Total sale of domestic cars in February 1974 was the lowest for a February since 1967. In February 1974, auto sales were on the slump because of the Arab oil embargo.

Despite Ford's increase in the last third of the month — Ford sold 57,806 compared with 54,613 in the same period a year earlier — the firm's sales for the entire month were down 6.4 per cent. Totals for last month were 152,548. In February 1974, Ford sold 162,955. General Motors, Chrysler and American Motors reported their figures Tuesday.

Importers said their monthly sales were a record 146,612. That's a 28 per cent increase over year-earlier totals, when 114,392 foreign cars were purchased. The indicators gave them a 21.5 per cent share of the U. S. market, a marked increase over the usual 15 per cent. Importers had a record 22 per cent share of the market in August 1971, which prompted the imposition of a 10 per cent import surtax.

Small cars — imports included — cornered 60 per cent of the market in February, compared with 45 per cent in February 1974.

School Boycott Launched Today In Marshall Co.

BENTON, Ky. (AP) — A group calling itself Concerned Citizens today launched a boycott of the Gilbertsville and Briensburg elementary schools in Marshall County.

The protestors are demanding construction of a new North Marshall school to replace the two, which they contend are in poor condition. The local school board voted to close Briensburg after this year.

The Briensburg principal reported only one-half the pupils showed up and Gilbertsville officials said even fewer attended.

Parents said the boycott will continue as long as necessary and added that they plan to file suit next week to force the board to build a new school.

Mrs. Adron Doran Speaker For Area Meet In Murray

The Purchase Area Homemakers Extension Council met February 24 at 10:00 a.m. in the new Extension Office in Graves County with Mrs. Forrest Yates, Area president, presiding.

Presidents from the eight county councils gave a short review of the work done in their counties. The reports show that Homemakers Clubs in the area have provided interesting and educational programs on a variety of subjects.

The state meeting of the Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association will be held in Lexington June 3-6 at the University of Kentucky Coliseum. Buses will be chartered for delegates from the Purchase.

Mrs. Yates reported that the national meeting of the Extension Homemakers will be held in Orlando, Florida, September 14-20. The Council voted to charter a bus for this trip. Homemakers desiring to make the trip should call their local agent for reservations.

Plans were made for the area meeting in October in Murray. Mrs. Adron Doran, Morehead, will be the guest speaker. Calloway County Homemakers Association will host the meeting.

Mrs. J. W. Routen, Issues and Concerns Chairman, urges Homemakers to enter the essay contest on the subject, "Paths for a Better America".

The stranger's lunch made her sick

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: An incident happened about two months ago, and I can't seem to get it out of my mind. In fact, when I think of it, it still repulses me, and I'd like to know if you think I'm wrong to feel this way.

My mom and I were eating lunch during the rush hour at a fairly nice restaurant. A man and a young boy entered together. The man had no arms, just stumps, hanging in full view of all. They sat near us, and ordered their lunch. The man's plate was placed in front of him, and he proceeded to knock it into eating position with his stumps. Then he put his face down into the plate and proceeded to eat just like a dog. I was so nauseated, I couldn't finish my lunch.

I honestly felt sorry for the man, but I also felt that he should not have exposed the people to that kind of scene. Please tell me how you honestly feel about it. It bothers me how much his looks and eating habits repulsed me. Thank you very much.

NO NAME OR PLACE

DEAR NO: You ask: "Am I wrong to feel this way?" Consider this: The armless man had to overcome his self-consciousness and learn how to handle the stares and looks of revulsion from strangers in order to eat in public. (A major victory for him!)

It takes a mature and compassionate person to handle unesthetic situations with grace. I hope you learn to do so because you will need it to deal with life realistically. And if you don't, it will be YOUR problem.

DEAR ABBY: There is this guy who is a year older than me, and a whole lot bigger. The other day he gave me a black eye. I would like to get back at him, but I don't know how to do it.

Have you any ideas? BLACK EYE

DEAR BLACK EYE: Stay out of his way, or you might end up with a matched pair.

DEAR ABBY: I met a man about a year and a half ago, and I really think he is the man for me. The only problem is that he is very set in his ways, and one of his faults is always being late. If he says he is going to call me at 6 PM, he doesn't call until 7 PM. And if he says he is coming over at 8 PM, he never gets here until 9 PM. He is always about an hour late.

I have talked to him about this, and he says he's always been that way. It really infuriates me. I want to marry him, but I'd like to break him of this habit first.

He treats me very well, and he is the nicest man I've ever met, but his constantly running an hour late all the time is something I can't stand. How can I change him?

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Don't try. In the future, when you want him to come over at 8 PM, ask him to come at 7 PM. Just set everything up for an hour earlier, and when he's an hour late, he'll be on time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOVED AND LOST": It's not always better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all. It depends upon what you've lost.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Chapter M Installs New Officers Here On Monday

Thirteen members of Chapter M of P.E.O. were present for the first business meeting of the new program year Monday evening at 7:30. Installation of 1975-76 officers followed the routine business session. For a part of her devotion, Mrs. W. J. Pittman read from First Corinthians, 13th chapter.

Mrs. Henry McKenzie, first vice-president of Kentucky State Chapter of P.E.O., installing member, reminded Chapter M officers of their duties as they were inducted for the year's work.

The following were installed: President, Mrs. Maurice P. Christopher; vice-president, Mrs. A. C. LaFollette; recording secretary, Mrs. Olga Freeman; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. L. Oakley; treasurer, Mrs. John C. Quermous; chaplain, Mrs. Paul W. Sturm; and guard, Mrs. George S. Hart. Mrs. LaFollette read the planned '75-76 programs which she and Mrs. Sturm had prepared. The theme will be: "So Let Your Light Shine." The three delegates elected to state convention in Louisville, May 18-20, were Mrs. Christopher, Mrs. LaFollette and Mrs. Larrie N. Clark. Alternates selected were Mrs. Oakley and Mrs. Sturm.

Mrs. Alfred Lindsey was the scheduled hostess. Mrs. Christopher and Mrs. Sturm assisted in serving spiced tea and strawberry cake.

The next meeting, a luncheon, will be with Mrs. A. H. Titworth, March 15, with Mrs. Oakley co-hostess.

Sunnyside Club

Hears Lesson

At Meeting

The Sunnyside Homemakers Club held its February meeting at the Extension Office with Sandy Barnett, vice-president, in charge due to the illness of the presiding, Betty Dowdy.

Peggy Jennings gave the devotion and Vandeleen Weatherford gave the thought. Minutes, roll call, and treasurer's report were given by Janice McCuiston.

It was announced that Ruth Futrell would enter the homemakers essay contest on "Pathways To A Better America." She and Kay Taylor volunteered to enter foods in the County Dairy Tasting luncheon on March 14.

Fran Garrison presented the lesson on "Decorative Pillows and Stretch Knits."

With the March lesson to be on "Embroidery," Peggy Jennings and Sandy Barnett brought some of the work they had done so the others could get some ideas for this type of work.

Dorothy Fridmore served refreshments and Evelyn Phillips led a game called "Love in the Kitchen."

The next meeting will be March 10 with Mildred Cherry as hostess.

FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1975

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Avoid tendencies toward haste, emotionalism. Study proffered plans, proposals. New advances indicated, but don't lose interest in current projects.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Some strain in key associations indicated. Probe deeply to find the cause, the better to cope with it effectively. In any case, keep your sense of humor intact.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Normally, you are not easily deceived, but be especially alert now or you COULD fall for some slick salesmanship.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Shore up sagging productivity, revise the format of programs which seem to get nowhere. A change of pace, direction, momentum may be the answer.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

A day calling for good judgment. Don't sell any new idea short, and do look for good opportunities which may not be immediately obvious.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You grasp ideas easily, see benefits to be gained where others only note the obstacles. Use your instincts NOW — and go forward!

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

The strong-minded must make doubly sure they are right before acting, lest they carry others down the wrong road. The usually well-balanced Libran should keep this in mind now.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Consider all propositions and suggestions offered, but do not be inveigled into anything that's not "your cup of tea." Fine influences stimulate your ambitions.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Do not jeopardize a dandy opportunity to stabilize your REAL interests now and DO by-pass nonessentials. Have a try at an eye-catching new method.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Considering this day's fine stellar influences, you should easily be able to produce top-notch results, increase assets, reanimate ambitions.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Under day's favorable aspects, you can win new laurels by capitalizing on your fine imagination and by pooling ideas with those who share your enthusiasms.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

Avoid restlessness, regrets over past errors, apprehension. These could all interfere with your progress. Stop firmly, but also lightly and tactfully.

YOU BORN TODAY are an extremely scholarly individual, a student of nature and purely intellectual in all your approaches to life and its various situations. You are highly intuitive, also, but sometimes make the mistake of trying to "analyze" your intuitive "messages." This renders them worthless. You are suited to a position of trust since your integrity is outstanding. You also like travel and unusual tasks. You rebel at routine. Music and the entertainment world would make excellent outlets for your talents and you could also shine in the fields of horticulture and landscape gardening. A Packed House For 'Fiddler'

The Murray Civic Music Association achieved a high point in its history last night when "Fiddler On The Roof" played before a packed house at Lovett Auditorium on the MSU campus.

The support generated by the Civic Music Association for last night's performance was outstanding, and should provide a major building block to make the association even stronger in years to come.

We salute the local association and Murray State University for their efforts toward the betterment of our community.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, March 6, the 65th day of 1975. There are 300 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1836, the Alamo in San Antonio, Tex., fell after a 13-day siege. Davy Crockett and some 180 other defenders were killed.

On this date —

In 1475, the Renaissance artist Michelangelo was born in Caprese, Italy.

In 1857, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a slave, Dred Scott, could not sue for his freedom in a federal court.

In 1945, during World War II, the German city of Cologne fell to the U.S. 1st Army.

In 1957, the former British African colonies of the Gold Coast and Togoland became the independent state of Ghana.

In 1953, Georgi Malenkov became Soviet premier after the death of Josef Stalin.

In 1961, President John Kennedy issued an executive order to guarantee equal job opportunities within the government, without regard to race.

Ten years ago: The Pentagon announced that 3,500 U.S. Marines were being sent to South Vietnam — the first American ground combat troops committed to the fighting against Communist guerrillas.

Five years ago: Sharp fighting raged in the South Vietnam jungle near the Cambodian border as an American rifle company clashed with a North Vietnamese force guarding supplies.

One year ago: President Richard Nixon, in a televised news conference, denied he had ever approved hush money or clemency for the Watergate defendants.

Today's birthdays: Conductor Julius Rudel is 54. Hall of Fame baseball pitcher Robert "Lefty" Grove is 75.

Thought for today: A man who could make so vile a pun would not scruple to pick a pocket. — John Dennis, English critic and dramatist, 1657-1734.

Understanding Drug Abuse

Science And Marijuana

a health column from the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

It is unwise to think that any drug with major pharmacological action can ever be truly safe. Marijuana is such a drug.

But intense controversy in an emotional climate is not helpful in accurately evaluating marijuana and developing a rational social policy with respect to possession and use of it.

History bears witness to the difficulties of placing drug use, especially of new substances, in realistic perspective. Dangers have sometimes been understated; at other times potential risks have been exaggerated.

For example, when coffee was introduced into Western Europe from the Near East, much controversy arose over its possibly harmful effects. Penalties as extreme as death were imposed for its use.

On the other hand, drugs that have turned out to be harmful to human health have not always seemed so at first. The medical and scientific community has not been free from error in some of its early judgments.

Heroin when first introduced was believed to be nonaddictive. It was even advocated as a cure for morphine addiction. Cocaine at first was believed to be completely safe for human use and was even thought to have therapeutic properties.

The methodical, objective way of science is the only acceptable approach to understanding the effects of drugs on the human body.

The scientific method is admittedly tedious and slow, but a drug such as marijuana probably will be with us from now on; therefore it is imperative that we carry out the necessary scientific research to give us a full understanding of this substance.

It Takes Time For A Bump On The Head To Be Funny

By M. C. Garrott

I came home from the office the other day to find our nine-year-old, Jeffrey, leaning against the refrigerator, still in his heavy jacket and sobbing softly while rubbing the side of his head.

He had ridden into the garage on his bicycle, lost his balance as he stopped and fell, banging his head on the end of the bumper of our car. It hurt, I know. A knock on the noggin like that can really hurt.

Taking him into my lap and trying to get his mind off his hurt, I told him about a couple of my early-day bicycle spills when I was a boy in Mayfield when I was perhaps a little older than he is. I remember them well. You never forget spills like these two.

The first fall was really a dumb one on my part. If I had been paying attention to what I was doing, it never would have happened.

I had ridden my Elgin bicycle to the picture show one night. At that time, we lived well out on West Broadway near the country club, and my brothers and I often rode into town after supper to take in a Hoot Gibson, Tarzan or William Powell "Thin Man" movie at the Legion or Princess Theaters. Both are closed now.

I really loved that bike. It had a tool box between the straddle bars and big, wide mud flats on the fenders. I didn't carry any tools in the tool box simply because I'm not mechanically inclined. I had bought the bike with money earned delivering papers.

It was about 9:15 p.m. when my fall occurred. The show was over, and I was headed home along the darkened street. I was just riding along, standing up on the pedals, pumping away with my head down and lolling from side to side like the pendulum on a clock.

Apparently I was reliving the movie—firing at the bad guys from the lunging back of a horse, fleeing from a herd of stampeding elephants in a steamy jungle, dancing with Ginger Rogers or tracking down a murderer with Myrna Loy. I can't remember exactly what I was thinking or dreaming about, but all of a sudden WHAM! Lights flashed, stars glittered and bells rang in my head!

I had ridden smack dab into the rear of a parked car, smashed the front wheel and basket of my bike and made all kinds of racket!

The backs of the cars in those days were pretty much straight up and down, and it was like hitting a wall with a tire mounted on it. It was a few minutes before I recovered enough to figure out what had happened and to check for broken bones. Luckily, except for my pride and a few hurts which later became bruises, I was all right.

D. P. McGee, a Mayfield groceryman, owned the car, and it was parked right in front of his house. It had every right to be there. I just ran into it. I knocked on his door, told Mr. McGee what had happened and used his phone to call my dad to come and help me get the bike home. Norman McGee, who sells insurance in Murray from his home in Mayfield, is a son of the car's owner, who died many years ago.

Won't you agree that was a dumb accident? Like I said, had I been paying attention to what I was doing, it never would have happened.

The second nose dive I took off a bicycle which I well remember, came some time after that. I was "carrying" the Louisville Courier-Journal at the time, and we had to pick up our papers at the Illinois Central passenger station when the 4:30 a.m. train came through in the mornings. In the winter, it was always pitch dark when I got up, dressed and headed for the station on my bike.

There had been a severe thunderstorm during the night or early morning, and a big tree had been blown down across West Broadway near the old West Ward School, which I attended.

Even so, I was sailing along, pedaling like something was after me, as I always did on those cold, dark mornings, when CRASH! I had piled into that fallen tree! I went one way; the bike the other! Moments later, I lay stunned, battered and bruised among all those branches in the stillness of that early morning.

Again, I was afraid to move at first, afraid I had broken something. You talk about a lonely feeling! That was it! Fortunately, I wasn't hurt other than some pretty good scratches and bruises, and the bike was rideable, except the handlebars looked like you were making a 45-degree turn, so I went on and delivered my papers.

I remember that fall—as the one against the parked car—like it was yesterday.

I can laugh about them now—and occasionally do, but they were no laughing matter when they happened.

Jeffrey didn't think the bump on his head was a bit funny either when I tried to kid him about it, but he'll laugh about it, too, someday if he remembers it. That's how it works.

When you slide down the banister or of life, I told him, you are bound to get some splinters in your rear end occasionally.

He didn't think that was funny either.

Anders Says Safety First For Nuclear

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even if it means closing the nation's nuclear power plants in the face of serious energy shortages, the chairman of the new Nuclear Regulatory Commission vows public health and safety will come first.

"I'm impressed with the margin of safety built into nuclear power plants," NRC chairman William Anders said in an interview.

"But our job is to insure public health and safety and we're going to take whatever action is necessary to do that," Anders said, repeatedly stressing his determination to mold an independent regulatory agency.

The NRC succeeded the now-defunct Atomic Energy Commission, which often was accused of lax regulation because of preoccupation with promoting nuclear energy.

The country now has more than 50 nuclear reactors licensed to generate electricity. They account for less than 10 per cent of the total generating capacity.

But projections are there will be more than 200 nuclear plants by the mid-1980s, supplying about a third of the nation's electricity.

Nuclear power critics who continue to challenge the plants' safety and reliability contend that government officials someday may have to choose between energy and public safety.

Anders said if a serious safety problem were discovered in nuclear reactors requiring their shutdown, they would be closed.

He serves as NRC chairman at the pleasure of the president, but the possibility of being demoted in a confrontation over reactor safety versus energy needs "doesn't bother me one bit," Anders said.

The former astronaut, who was a member of the Apollo 8 crew that circled the moon in 1968, said he and his fellow commissioners have President Ford's personal assurances that NRC will be autonomous as it regulates the growing nuclear power industry.

The NRC was created last Jan. 19 in a government reorganization that abolished the Atomic Energy Commission and created the Energy Research and Development Administration. Anders had served as one of the five AEC commissioners since mid-1973. Ford named him NRC chairman in December.

Anders had been in office only nine days when small cracks were discovered in key safety piping in a nuclear power reactor at Morris, Ill. Cracks at that reactor and others first detected last September and then again in December already had alerted nuclear reactor safety experts.

"The commission's staff thought that their understanding of the cracks was less than they originally had supposed," Anders said.

So the NRC took the unprecedented action of ordering 23 of the country's reactors to shut down within 20 days to inspect piping. The order cost the electrical utilities involved several million dollars.

All but one of the plants now have been inspected and no additional cracks were found other than those in the Illinois plant.

"That order could have caused any number of people a lot of heartburn," Anders said. The NRC informed Congress' Joint Committee on Atomic Energy and the White House only after the order had gone out, he said.

"They backed us all the way," he said.

Critics of the AEC in recent years deplored the agency's dual responsibilities to promote nuclear energy through research and development programs and to regulate its use. Separating the two functions was one goal of the legislation that created the independent NRC.

Anders is sensitive to establishing the NRC's reputation as a no-nonsense regulator of an industry its predecessor was accused of shamelessly boosting.

David Comey, a Chicago environmentalist, wrote Anders in February asking why the AEC last year changed its statistical method of assessing nuclear power plant performance. Comey suggested the agency purposely made the change to make nuclear power appear more efficient.

Anders ordered an investigation. "If Comey's charge is true, I'll be madder than hell," Anders said. "I'm not convinced it's the job of this agency to put out any numbers at all because it tends to put in a promotional point of view," he said.

Myron Cherry, a Chicago attorney who often fights nuclear reactor projects in court, wrote Anders questioning the legal basis for the NRC's complex set of regulations. Cherry said the regulations might unnecessarily reflect pro-nuclear energy viewpoints because they were formulated when the old AEC had its dual promotional and regulatory role.

"I think Cherry has a very valid point," Anders said. "We've asked our staff to go back and review the regulations in light of the new independent regulatory agency aspect and see if there aren't some conflicts."

In months ahead the NRC will face some tough questions.

For example, it must decide whether to allow reprocessing of reactor spent fuel rods to extract plutonium for manufacture into new fuel rods.

Approval would signal the beginning of what some environmentalists have called a "plutonium economy" that eventually will see thousands of tons of plutonium transported about the country.

The NRC must wrestle with the tough problem of what to do with nuclear wastes. It also must consider licensing of the first breeder reactor, whose boosters see it as the forerunner of a new generation of massive reactors dotting the country.

In London, a Peeping Tom tried to talk a contestant of the Miss World Contest into stripping and parading for him naked, and then stole her purse when she refused. The twenty year old Miss Denmark discovered the man peering into her first floor hotel room when she walked to the window clad in her bra and panties to catch a breath of fresh air. The spokesman said the man told the girl he was a security officer trying to catch a Peeping Tom and asked her to take off her remaining clothes and walk on the balcony to entice the peeper into a trap. The girl, disbelieving this story, grabbed her robe and ran from the room. When she returned with a real security officer, the man was gone, along with her purse which contained thirty six dollars, a passport, and other personal effects.

Let's Stay Well Search Of Cause Of Urinary Infections

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

BLASINGAME

Gonorrhea has been on the increase and is considered to be the second most common infectious disease—second only to the common cold. However, authorities have begun to question whether many of the infections of the urinary tract are caused by gonococcus bacteria.

It is not unusual for the physician to see cases in which gonococcus bacteria cannot be found when the pus is stained and examined under the microscope or when cultured to grow these bacteria.

Further, certain cases showing gonococcal infections respond well to penicillin, while other cases fail to respond or they recur. Such experiences have raised the question whether the Neisseria gonococcus has become penicillin-resistant or whether the inflammation is due to a mixed infection (N. gonococcus along with another germ) or to some other germ which could be the total cause.

Some authorities are of the opinion that a virus, herpes simplex II, is a common cause of persistent inflammations of the urinary tract and that such a virus is resistant to all known drugs and antibiotics. Kenny Higgs And Rick Robey Named SEC Players Of Week

By Tom Saladino
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Rick Robey and Kenny Higgs, a pair of talented freshmen who left home to do their college basketball playing, have been named the Associated Press Southeastern Conference co-players of the week.

The 19-year-olds did exact reversals in selecting schools. Robey, a native of New Orleans, chose Kentucky while Higgs of Owensboro, Ky., headed the other way, going to Louisiana State.

Both Robey, a 6-foot-10, 238-pound center, and the flashy, cat-like 5-11, 175-pound Higgs did their thing Saturday, each compiling college career-high scoring totals. Robey pumped in 28 points on eight of 11 shooting from the field and a perfect 12 of 12 free throws. He added 10 rebounds and four steals in leading a 109-84 rout over Vanderbilt by the sixth-ranked Wildcats.

Higgs poured in 38 points in guiding LSU to a 94-87 upset victory over Tennessee. He connected on 14 of 19 shots from the field, 10 of 13 from the free throw line and added seven assists.

"He's a freshman, so naturally he's better later in the season," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall of Robey, who has been sharing playing time most of the season with another freshman center, Mike Phillips.

"He's a spirited player who can give that spirit to our team when we need it," said Hall. "He talks out there on the floor all the time."

Higgs got some advice from a friend before the Tennessee game. The friend happened to be his high school coach, Lavelton Kennedy.

"He said I didn't seem to be playing the same game I played in high school," said Higgs. "I decided to turn it loose."

He said Tennessee played a box-and-one defense "and tried to get me shook up. I figured, I know I'm small, but I'm quicker. I just try to use my speed. They have to catch me. It gets me up to play against good competition."

Higgs has averaged 18.1 points a game, 13th best in the SEC, and says, "I never thought I'd walk into something like this, being a freshman."

The two first-year men edged out Leon Douglas of Alabama, Glenn Hansen of LSU and Kevin Grevey of Kentucky for the weekly award.

Mike Coleman Hoping To Get Chance At Playing Pro Ball

By ROSS BOLING

For Murray fans it's been one year and one highly frustrating basketball season since T. C. Jamison, Darnell Adell and Mike Coleman lost the remainder of their eligibility at Murray State as a result of the OVC test-score controversy. Murray supporters are still wondering, particularly in the light of this season, what might have been.

The trio has gone their separate ways. Adell was redshirted this year at North Carolina State and according to Coach Norm Sloan will be the Wolfpack's playmaking guard next year. Jamison went to Southwestern Louisiana and was also redshirted with a view toward next season. Coleman transferred to Southern Mississippi where he has averaged 28.6 points a game this season to lead his team and rank sixth nationally in scoring.

At Murray Coleman, better known as "Chug" to Racer fans, was a subject of controversy. To some he was an unquestionable superstar who provided the Racers with an ever ready scoring punch, dazzling the spectator with his imaginative repertoire of inside moves. Though he never quite looked graceful doing it, somehow he managed to twist and turn and pump and bruise his way to basket after basket. But to others, and even to some of his own teammates, he was an inveterate "hot dog" whose foremost concern was getting his points and maintaining his average rather than playing team ball. Sure, he scored a lot but he shot and missed a lot too, they say. At one point during last season's finale against Austin Peay he was pelted with wadded up paper cups by Murray fans after he attempted an impossible shot instead of passing off to an open man.

Almost like a ghost haunting a freshly laden grave, Coleman was in Murray recently and he granted this interview.

In a friend's dorm room against a backdrop of Curtis Mayfield's "Superfly," I asked him about his feelings toward Murray, the events of the year just past, and what the future holds in store.

RB: What were your initial feelings when you learned you would no longer be eligible to play at Murray?

MC: At first I was happy. I thought I would be able to transfer to a bigger name school.

RB: But you ended up at Southern (Mississippi). Why?

MC: After we knew for sure that we would have to play somewhere else, we had only two weeks to decide on a school. The only firm offer I got was from Southern.

RB: There were rumors that you had signed with the New York Nets.

MC: I signed with their farm team in the Eastern League but I thought I should go ahead and play out my eligibility.

RB: How did you like Southern?

MC: It was different.

RB: How so? You mean because of living in the Deep South? (Southern Mississippi is located in Hattiesburg, 60 miles from the Gulf Coast).

MC: Yeah. I heard "boy" and "nigger" a lot. I was never called that but my friends were. Because I was an athlete I was treated okay but it was hard to get used to seeing so much open racism around me especially when it affected my friends.

RB: Were you the only black on the team?

MC: No, six others.

RB: Did it affect your play any?

MC: Not really. It was hard but I adjusted to it.

RB: What about your season? Southern is an independent. What kind of schedule did you play and what was your record?

MC: Our record was 11-15. We played a pretty tough schedule. The hardest teams we faced were Pan American (one of the top independents), Centenary (with possible All-American Robert Parrish), and Utah State (ranked in the top twenty). We played Memphis State and Georgia, too.

RB: Did you win any of those?

MC: No. But we played some good games. We only lost to Memphis by six points and against Robert Parrish of Centenary, I got 40. People have said he's the next Jabbar.

RB: Did he guard you?

MC: Yeah.

RB: What does the future hold in store? Have you been contacted by any pro scouts?

MC: Yeah.

RB: The ABA or the NBA?

MC: (hesitantly) Both.

RB: Are you leaning toward any particular team or league?

MC: I would like to play in New Orleans (the NBA Jazz). New Orleans is only about an hour and half from Hattiesburg. Their scouts have been to a lot of our games.

RB: When will you make a decision?

MC: Not until the pro draft in April. I'll have to wait and see how early I go and which team shows the most interest.

RB: Do you have any idea how much money you might be able to get?

MC: Not really. I'm just hopin' for the best.

RB: Looking back over the events of the last ten minutes, how do you feel? Do you miss Murray? How do you feel about your experience at Murray?

MC: I miss Murray a lot. I learned a lot here, especially about defense. Murray is a better place to play ball. I miss the crowds here. Southern is mainly a football school. It's hard to leave your friends all of a sudden like I did.

RB: Have you heard from T. C. or Darnell?

MC: Not since last summer, but they were both redshirted and plan to see a lot of action next season.

RB: What do you plan to do between now and next basketball season?

MC: Just try and keep in shape. Lift some weights. I'll go home this summer and play in some of the summer leagues and hope for the best in the draft.

RB: Good luck.

MC: Thanks.

Lot Of Shuffling Takes Place In Final Ratings

By The Associated Press

Chaos struck The Associated Press Kentucky High School Basketball poll in its final week of the season with Louisville Central taking honors as the mythical state champion.

No team in the top 10 retained the position it held a week ago. Central took over the No. 1 position from Louisville Male after the Bulldogs lost to Lexington Bryan Station, 77-72.

That victory for Bryan Station prompted a jump for the defenders from ninth to fifth while Lexington Henry Clay finished as the state's third rated team and Louisville Ballard, fourth.

Ballard had been the state's only undefeated team until last Saturday, when Central put it on the Bruins, 63-44.

Behind Bryan Station in the final poll were: No. 6 Paducah Tilghman, down from fifth; No. 7 Christian County, up from eighth; No. 8 Johnson Central, down from seventh; No. 9 Richmond Madison, up from 13th; and No. 10 Lexington Lafayette, down from sixth.

Johnson Central's fall came after a defeat by Ashland; Madison made an entry into the top 10 following a nine-point loss to Male; and Lafayette slipped after its 83-65 loss to Newport.

Henry Clay moved up from fourth to third following a 99-72 thumping of Clark County while Central was rolling over Louisville Manual, 93-66, the night before the Jackets rocked Ballard.

Kevin Porter "Assists" Bullets To Another Win

By The Associated Press

"I'm not the key to this ball club," said Elvin Hayes, the leading scorer on the Washington Bullets. "Kevin (Porter) is the key. He's the guy who makes us run. On every winning streak... Kevin ignites our fast break."

The Bullets, the winningest team in the National Basketball Association, currently are on a seven-game winning streak... and Porter has been a major catalyst.

Wednesday night, the diminutive backcourt speedster and playmaker handed out an NBA season high of 22 assists—one more than he recorded in the Bullets' previous victory—as Washington downed the Atlanta Hawks 118-112.

The victory boosted the Central Division-leading Bullets' record to 49-17, including triumphs in their last 22 home games.

In other NBA games, the Boston Celtics beat the Philadelphia 76ers 116-107 and the New Orleans Jazz topped the Los Angeles Lakers 123-117.

Hayes was Washington's leading scorer with 30 points, Phil Chenier added 28 and Mike Riordan connected on 10 straight field goal attempts in the first half en route to a 24-point game.

Celtics 116, 76ers 107
Dave Cowens and John Havlicek each collected 28 points and Jo Jo White added 20 to lead Boston.

Jazz 123, Lakers 107
Pete Maravich's 30 points, 14 rebounds and 13 assists led surprising New Orleans to its 10th victory in 13 games.

OVC Strikes Again: Scholarship Cut?

NCAA Official Says OVC Would Be "Discriminating In Reverse"

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Tom Hansen, an official with the National Collegiate Athletic Association in Kansas City, Mo., said Wednesday that if the Ohio Valley Conference takes away eight spring sports scholarships and gives them to the women's athletic programs, it would be "discriminating in reverse."

The Ohio Valley Conference has yet to reach a decision on whether or not to strip away the eight scholarships but it is a possibility, which is currently under study by a six-man panel.

Under Title IX of the Secondary Education Act, a school offering a sport for men has to offer that sport for women, and if they do not comply, then the school could lose its federal funding.

As of yet, the act has not been tested.

The OVC says it is trying to do something for women's sports on a uniform basis for the eight schools in the conference. However, of the four Kentucky schools in the league, none of the women's teams belong to the OVC.

Instead, they all belong to the Kentucky Intercollegiate Women's Conference.

Hansen said he expects legislation to be in the hands of President Ford sometime within the next three or four weeks, dealing with the provisions of Title IX.

"We really don't know what regulations it will have," Hansen said.

"We have a pretty good idea of how Caspar Weinberger feels."

Weinberger is the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

"He thinks the two programs must be virtually comparable and believes the same number of scholarships that are available for men should be made available to women."

"Colleges will be faced with having to cut the men's scholarships in half and giving them to women or else doubling the total number of scholarships. What will happen is HEW will force colleges to reduce the number of scholarships in certain areas, like the OVC might do in spring sports, and then give that number to the women.

"It's discrimination in reverse...unfortunately, it isn't discrimination in a legal case."

Hansen said Kentucky could very well hold the key as to whether or not the reduction of men's scholarships would become the way to comply with Title IX.

"As soon as President Ford signs the bill, Congress will have 45 days on whether or not to decide if HEW followed the directions of Congress in outlining the bill.

"If it goes to committee, then Congressman Carl Perkins of Kentucky would be the most powerful man in Congress on the subject. He's chairman of the Education and Labor Committee and they would be the ones to review the bill.

"So I urge concerned people to contact Congressman Perkins about the issue."

Hansen said Division I football schools have a maximum of 105 scholarships.

"You now have a few women who are talking in terms of 105 scholarships, in addition to the number of scholarships involved in other sports. Are there that many women on campus who are interested?"

"The truth of the matter is where in Kentucky could Murray State find that many top quality female athletes?"

Hansen went on to say that he felt if the OVC did take away the scholarships, it would ruin the track and cross country reputation the conference has around the country.

"Everybody has heard of the OVC because of their great success in track and cross country. Eventually, because they wouldn't be able to recruit the top-notch athletes since not enough scholarships would be available, track and cross country might have to be reduced to an intramural level."

Scholarship Cut Would Be Death Blow For MSU Baseball And Track

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

Two spring sports programs could suffer near-fatal wounds at Murray State University if they are stripped of three scholarships.

Both programs, baseball and track, have brought national recognition to Murray State.

Presently, baseball has 12 scholarships, a loss of three would knock the total down to nine. Yet on this spring's Murray State roster, there are 27 players.

Track has 14 scholarships (with two included for cross country) and a loss of three would leave the program with 11.

"It would have to lessen the quality of our program," Murray State baseball coach Johnny Reagan said.

"Depth-wise, it would really be damaging. We split our scholarships into halves, that means we'd lose six people." Last year, Murray State, the only major college baseball team in the Ohio Valley Conference, was ranked as high as 14th in the nation.

"If we lose three scholarships, I definitely think it will take us out of the national picture. It will be almost impossible to compete on a national level.

"We won't be able to get the blue-chip athletes. We have to have 25 to 30 men and of course that rules out the possibility of anyone having a full scholarship and that's where we'd lose the blue-chipper."

Track coach Bill Cornell was outraged at the possibility of losing three scholarships.

"Number one, it will leave me with nothing to recruit with this year. We gain three scholarships back by graduation but if three are taken away from us, then we haven't gained anything.

Cornell said that in the long range, it would weaken track and his teams would not be able to compete with anybody outside the OVC.

"In my opinion, track has always been the underdog when you take into consideration the number of scholarships in relation to the number of men needed on a squad.

"For example: How many men do you really 'need' for golf? About four or five. How many do you really need for tennis? About seven or eight. Yet each has five scholarships at the present time.

"You can only have nine men on the baseball field at one time. Yet they have 12 scholarships. Of course I realize they have to have relief pitchers and utility men but we're just speaking in terms of minimum numbers now."

"Now, let's look at basketball and football:

"How many men do you need for a basketball team? Five on the floor and three or four good men on the bench. But they have 20 scholarships. They don't even dress that many players.

"How many men do you need for football? Eleven on each squad, several specialty men and some backup people...let's say 35 or so. But yet they have 60 scholarships.

"Now, let's look at track and cross country.

"There are 17 events in a track meet and I need from between 30 to 35 men on my team. Yet I have only 10 scholarships. I need a minimum of five men on the cross country team, yet I have only two scholarships."

Cornell's point: "Even though track has been hit the hardest in this respect, track and cross country in this conference have brought our conference more national publicity than any other sports."

"The OVC has gotten publicity on Jim McDaniels, Fly Williams and the conversion table thing, yet look at the other side of the fence.

"In five or six years, we've had between 17 and 20 athletes who have been Division I All-Americans. We are the top conference in the country in cross country."

"Six times, 'T-Bird' Turner was an All-American and he appeared on national television three or four times. Just recently, Nick Rose of Western won the national cross country championship and Western finished second as a team.

"And in the world-famous Boston Marathon, an OVC athlete, Neil Cusack of East Tennessee was the winner.

"Track will eventually be reduced to an intramural level if we lose the three scholarships. I wouldn't be surprised if in four or five years, they cut out all spring sports. Yet you see on television, stuff like the President's Council for Physical Fitness and at the same time, we're being forced to cut our scholarships."

"Why pick on athletics? 'I'm all for women's programs being upgraded. Yet, not at the expense of men's programs. Everything we've worked for is being taken away from us. Actually, I don't really believe the women want it that way."

Cornell said some schools are talking about cutting out all sports except the ones that bring in revenue.

"Are there really any money-making sports in the OVC? Just because people go to football and basketball games doesn't mean they are making money."

Cornell brought up another interesting point, in regards to money.

"We have a $200,000 track facility. If they take away the scholarships, they'll be running intramurals on that track because we just can't get the athletes we need to compete."

It's something to think about.

Pacers Mop Colonels Behind Hillman's 33

By The Associated Press
The nearness of the American Basketball Association always seems to bring out the best in the Indiana Pacers. And this season is no exception.

The Pacers, notoriously slow starters and strong finishers, continued their sizzling stretch pace Wednesday night, trouncing the Kentucky Colonels 103-90 for their ninth victory in the last 11 games.

"We've come a long way since the start of the season," observed Coach Bob Leonard of Indiana, the only team in ABA history to win three league titles. "In the last month, we've played real great ball."

Elsewhere in the ABA, the San Antonio Spurs whipped the New York Nets 122-109 and the San Diego Conquistadors conquered the Utah Stars 99-94.

Darnell Hillman sparked Indiana with a career-high 33 points, while rookie Len Elmore tied his pro high with 18 points. Hillman and Elmore each grabbed 11 rebounds, while George McGinnis, the ABA's leading scorer, was held to 17 points, but contributed 10 assists.

Artis Gilmore's 33 points paced the Colonels, who remained 1½ games behind first-place New York in the Eastern Division.

Spurs 122, Nets 109
George Gervin scored 34 points and Donnie Freeman added 21 to lead the Spurs.

Julius Erving led New York with 26 points and Larry Kenon scored 22.

Q's 99, Stars 94
Bo Lamar's 23 points and Caldwell Jones' 16 points and 19 rebounds helped the Q's withstand a late Utah rally.

Hole-In-One
KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Hsieh Min Nan of Taiwan scored a hole-in-one today in the opening round of the four-day Malaysian Open Golf Tournament. He will collect $2,000 for accomplishing the feat on the 184-yard, par-3 fourth hole of the Royal Selangor Golf Club course.

Hsieh said, "I am very lucky and happy."

Four Spring Sports May Lose Eight Scholarships

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

The Ohio Valley Conference has struck again.

Last year, the OVC made the national press when 27 of its athletes were declared ineligible because of the conference's continued use of outdated conversion tables, used in the recruiting of athletes.

And today, there stirs another major controversy in this conference, which has as its eight members, four schools from Tennessee and four from Kentucky.

There is a good possibility that the OVC may take away eight spring sports scholarships, three apiece from track and baseball and one each from golf and tennis.

Where would the scholarships go? And there begins another hassle.

The scholarships would be laid aside for use in the women's athletic programs at the eight schools in the league.

According to Cal Luther, athletic director at Murray State University, the conference decided in its last meeting there was a need for something to be done about women's athletics in the league.

Rather than for each school to take its own action in building the women's program, the conference presidents felt that something should be done on a uniform level.

The presidents decided at the time that one possibility was to take away the eight scholarships from the spring sports.

"No action has been taken as of yet on the matter," said Dr. Constantine Curris, Murray State president and a member of the six-man panel that will review the possibility of cutting the spring scholarships and putting them into a general area for women.

But even though no action has been taken, it has left the coaches of spring sports at Murray State in an uproar.

And to make things even more complicated, members of the women's athletic staff at Murray State take side with the men.

"We are a due-paying member of the Kentucky Women's Intercollegiate Conference," said Dr. Nan Ward, a widely-known person in Kentucky in the area of women's athletics.

"We'd be happy to get eight scholarships but we hate to take anything away from the men."

Meanwhile, all four of the spring sports coaches at Murray State expressed their fear of the loss of scholarships.

Murray is the only Division I baseball school in the conference and Coach Johnny Reagan said he felt the loss of three scholarships would be a great blow.

In the past three years, Murray State has been ranked among the nation's top 20 baseball teams. Reagan said that if the conference decided to cut the scholarships, he would no longer be able to recruit the "blue-chippers" and thus would not be able to compete on a national level.

The same holds true for track coach Bill Cornell. In seven years at Murray State, Cornell has produced seven All-Americans. One, Tommie "T-Bird" Turner, was a six-time All-American and made numerous appearances on national television.

The Ohio Valley Conference is the top cross country league in the nation. Last fall, Western Kentucky finished second in the NCAA meet and junior Nick Rose of England was the national champion.

Jerry Bean, coach of the Hilltopper track and cross country teams, said a loss of the three scholarships would be "a near-fatal blow to Western's track and cross country's national recognition."

Several coaches and Tom Hansen, an executive with the NCAA, said they felt such a move by the Ohio Valley Conference would be "discrimination in reverse."

The committee, which is studying the proposal, will meet April 24 and 25 on the campus of Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green.

Two Of Teams That Beat Middle Are In Tourney

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP)—Only four teams beat Middle Tennessee State University this season, but two of them still stand between the Blue Raiders and a berth in the NCAA basketball tournament.

Middle Tennessee, 21-4, must win the revived Ohio Valley Conference tournament Friday and Saturday to advance to the NCAA Midwest Regional March 15 at the University of Kentucky.

Friday night's pairings are Austin Peay, 16-9, against Tennessee Tech, 13-11, in the opening game, and Middle Tennessee against Morehead, 13-12, in the nightcap.

The Blue Raiders lost to Morehead 89-85 Feb. 15 and to Austin Peay 70-65 Feb. 22. Both games were on the road.

Middle Tennessee's other losses were to Penn 101-74 in the opening game of the season and to Vanderbilt 81-68 in late December.

Three of the statistical leaders in the conference will be in action during the tourney.

Tennessee Tech's Frank Jones was the OVC's leading scorer with an average of 22.9 points per game.

Other statistics released Wednesday showed Middle Tennessee's George Sorrell as the leading rebounder averaging 13.5 a game, and Morehead's Mike Kelly as the best-free throw shooter at 91.5 per cent.

Western Kentucky finished as the team scoring leader, averaging 87.7 points per game. Middle Tennessee led in defense at 76.2 points per game.

Women Not Happy Over Situation

By MIKE BRANDON

Ledger & Times Sports Editor Women's athletics in the Ohio Valley Conference schools could gain eight scholarships but the women's coaching staff at Murray State University isn't happy over the possibility.

Under a plan now being considered by a panel of six men, the conference would take away eight spring sports scholarships and give them to the women. Three scholarships would be taken from both track and baseball and one scholarship would be taken from golf and tennis.

The women aren't complaining about the eight scholarships. They are, instead, complaining about being taken over by the OVC and the NCAA. Presently, the four schools in the OVC from Kentucky compete in a different conference for women: the Kentucky Women's Intercollegiate Conference.

"We can sit back and say we have conference by-laws, a constitution etc., but if the OVC presidents come in and tell us that we have to go OVC-NCAA, then we have no choice," said Nan Ward, known throughout the state as a leader in women's athletics.

"Suppose we get eight scholarships. How do we divide them? We have five different women's sports at Murray State."

"I hate to see women's programs competing with men. We need to look at this situation and view the athletes as kids, not boy versus girl."

"All I'm concerned with is girls having the opportunity to participate. We certainly don't want to take anything away from the men."

"I hope the men don't think we're taking the scholarships from them. The women aren't doing it. The men are doing it to themselves and like us, they really don't have much say-so about the matter."

Nita Head, tennis coach for the women's team at MSU, agreed.

"We're not in the OVC. We belong to a strong organization, the KWIC. We shouldn't be a problem for the OVC."

Dr. Brenda Smith, a member of the MSU women's physical education department, said she felt the eight scholarships were an effort to meet Title IX.

"I can see how the men feel. But take track, they are losing three scholarships and will go down from 14 to 11. But 11 is better than none. If they don't offer comparable programs to women, then they could lose the whole program."

"I think that's what HEW is trying to tell the schools. They are trying to force something on the men and I'm really in sympathy with them."

Margaret Simmons, track coach at Murray State, said she felt that men shouldn't have lost their scholarships but that women should get scholarships from somewhere else.

"My girls work just as hard as the guys and they deserve something. We're for both programs. It's ugly to fight anyone in your own program."

"We went forever with nothing and yet had a lot of kids that got national recognition. Carla Coffey held national records in both the 100 and 200-meter hurdles yet she paid the majority of her expenses to go to the NCAA Meet."

"After she got back, she was recognized." Dewdrop Rowlett, basketball coach at Murray State, was not available for comment since her team is playing in a tournament in North Carolina.

Helen Gourlay Gets Her Third Consecutive Upset In Tennis

By The Associated Press

Helen Gourlay has tennis racket, will travel.

And she's getting pretty far in the U.S. Women's Indoor Tennis Championships at Boston.

The only unseeded player left in the $75,000 tournament, Miss Gourlay moved into the quarter-finals along with seven others by blasting fellow Australian Lesley Hunt 6-4, 6-3 Wednesday.

The victory was the third straight upset for Miss Gourlay, who was ticketed for a demotion to a satellite tourney before knocking out Patti Hogan and eighth-seeded Wendy Overton.

All seven surviving seeded players headed by Margaret Court, Chris Evert and Evonne Goolagong moved smoothly through third-round matches Wednesday along with Miss Gourlay.

In reaching the quarter-finals, not one of the leaders dropped a set.

Mrs. Court, of Australia, beat South Africa's Linky Boshoff 63, 6-1 before a crowd of 2,900 at Boston University's Case Center. Miss Evert trounced Russia's Marena Kroschina 6-2, 6-3.

Susan Mehmedbasich was no match for Australia's Miss Goolagong, who won, 6-2, 6-1, while Czech Martina Navratilova overpowered Julie Anthony 7-5, 6-2.

Tournament officials announced that the last three rounds were already sold out at the 5,000-seat arena. The quarter-finals will match Miss Navratilova against England's Virginia Wade, Olga Morozova of Russia against Miss Goolagong, Julie Heldman against Miss Evert, and Mrs. Court against Miss Gourlay.

Omaha's Bill Brown, who beat Illie Nastase in the 1974 Canadian Open, dumped top-seeded Bijay Amritraj in the Shreveport (La.) International tennis tournament 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.

In other second round singles action, Rumania's Viorel Marcu defeated Spencer Segura 1-6, 7-5, 6-3; Bob Kreiss beat Larry Gottfried 6-2, 4-6, 6-1. Anand Amritraj defeated Cliff Letcher of Australia 6-1, 4-6, 6-1 and Robert Machan of Hungary upended Mike Machette 6-2, 6-1.

In London, Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia fell victim to the flu and defaulted in the first round of a $60,000 international tournament. Pattison, trailing 2-4 in the first set, defaulted to Brian Fairlie of New Zealand, becoming the fourth player to give up the event.

Hans Juergen Pohmann of Germany volleyed his way to a first-round 6-7, 6-3, 6-4 victory over Kjell Johansson, a late substitute for Sweden's Bjorn Borg.

In other first-round matches, Zeljko Franulovic of Yugoslavia beat Onny Parun of New Zealand 3-6, 6-4, 6-3; Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia stopped Roger Taylor of England 6-7, 6-4, 6-2 and Czechoslovakia's Jan Kodes whipped West Germany's Juergen Fassbender 6-7, 6-1, 6-4.

Hometown Fight

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati middleweight Roy Dale will fight in his hometown for the first time March 20.

Dale, who has 34 victories in 45 fights, signed Wednesday with the Ringmasters Boxing Club for a 10-round bout with Dave "Sugar" Wyatt at the Cincinnati Convention and Exposition Center.

The Ringmasters also announced an April 8 bout between heavyweights Ron Lyle of Denver and Daniel Lee of Louisville.

The 10-round event will be the third program held here by the group, which is hoping to revive the sport in Cincinnati.

Rehired

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tommy O'Boyle has been rehired by the Kansas City Chiefs as an assistant talent scout. He was fired several weeks ago as head talent scout.

Les Miller, the Chiefs' new director of player personnel, said he is "happy to have a man of his caliber and knowledge on our scouting staff."

O'Boyle, who joined the Chiefs in 1966, was fired during the National Football League club's reorganization recently.

Dick Williams Fining Players $100 For Every Excess Pound

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON.

AP Sports Writer

Just when the price of beef was supposed to be going down, along come the California Angels, charging the inflationary rate of $100 a pound.

That may be good news for the Angels' treasury, but it puts a dent in the economy of catcher Tom Egan and pitcher Andy Hassler.

Dick Williams, manager of the Angels' consumer affairs bureau, announced during the winter that the cost of easy living was going up and any overweight player would be assessed at the rate of $100 for each excess pound.

So when the Angels, who often were called butchers when they finished last in the American League West in 1974, held their first full spring training workout Wednesday, there was Williams testing for excess fat. He found three pounds of it on Egan—$300 worth—and one pound on Hassler—$100.

Then, Williams put the Angels through a 3½-hour drill which stressed fundamentals and conditioning.

"We're gonna make sure you're in shape," he told the players. Williams might have quite a job if George Scott were an Angel. The Milwaukee Brewers didn't consider Scott an angel when the big first baseman, listed on the roster at 210 pounds, reported at a big, BIG, 230.

Manager Del Crandall socked it to Scott's wallet but the amount of the fine was not disclosed.

The Angels continued their fine start by slapping catcher Ellie Rodriguez an undisclosed amount for being five days late. AWOL pitchers Horacio Pina and Barry Raziano also face fines unless they have a good explanation for being among the missing, Williams said.

In another development, one-time slugger Tony Conigliaro, attempting a comeback with the Boston Red Sox after being out of baseball for 3½ years, was signed to a minor league contract with Pawtucket of the International League.

The contract means little. If the 30-year-old Conigliaro can do the job, he'll be in Boston in 1975. Conigliaro, who led the American League with 32 home runs when only 20 years old, was nearly blinded when hit on the left cheek by a pitch from California's Jack Hamilton Aug. 18, 1967.

In the Cleveland Indians' camp, Manager Frank Robinson and pitcher Gaylord Perry buried the hatchet...again. "Everything is fine as far as I'm concerned," Perry said. "Sure, I wasn't happy about certain things, but I wasn't trying to cause any trouble for Frank."

On Tuesday, Robinson had urged Perry to work harder and set a better example for the team's younger players.

SEC Expected To Make Tough Rules On Coaches

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Southeastern Conference basketball coaches had better practice curbing the urge to let off steam with sideline antics during a game.

The conference is expected to adopt today a proposal with stiff penalties for coaches who incite crowds watching a game to become unruly.

The coaches could come in for disciplinary action and possibly even suspension. Or they might be escorted from a gymnasium just as spectators are when they are caught throwing objects on the floor.

The SEC has become more concerned about crowd control at basketball games since the sport has become more competitive.

Kentucky State Downs Pikeville

CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP) — Kentucky State downed Pikeville 72-62 Wednesday night, earned the right to compete in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics national basketball tournament in Kansas City.

The Thoroughbreds, ranked Number one in The Associated Press college division poll, took an early lead and never again trailed.

Gerald Cunningham led Kentucky State in scoring with 25 points.

It was the sixth year in a row that Kentucky State won the NAIA District 24 playoffs and a berth in the national tourney.

"The statement the presidents will be voting on will do whatever it takes to stop the problem, whether it involves coaches, spectators, athletic directors or anyone else involved," said SEC Commissioner Boyd McWhorter.

The commissioner declined to give specifics of the proposal but said it "hits directly at the point. It is as specific as any I've ever read."

The SEC ends its winter business meeting today when presidents of the 10 schools vote on various proposals.

Another interesting decision will come on a proposal to ban artificial noisemakers from football stadiums and basketball arenas.

Although it was not specifically aimed at Mississippi State, it would ban that school's tradition of clanging cow bells during football games.

The conference already has such a rule for basketball games, but McWhorter said the proposal to be voted on will clear up some loose ends in the current regulation.

The conference appointed a committee Wednesday to study the financial crunch in intercollegiate athletics, naming Dr. Otis Singletary, president of Kentucky, as chairman.

Others on the committee are Dr. Fred Davison, president of Georgia, Athletic Directors Lee Haley, of Auburn and Clay Stapleton of Vanderbilt, business manager Jack Gilmore of Louisiana State and Dr. Earl Ramer, faculty representative from Tennessee.

Marquette Almost Certain To Receive NCAA At-Large Bid

By The Associated Press
Al McGuire and his Marquette Warriors await an almost certain bid today to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's basketball playoffs. For everyone else, it's nervous time.

The nation's fifth-ranked team is an obvious choice for the annual playoffs, but other selections won't be that easy for the NCAA.

The field has been expanded from 25 to 32, 16 of them independents, and for the first time in history, the NCAA will be able to invite conference also-rans as at-large teams.

After Marquette gets its invitation, there'll be 15 at-large berths available. Four of them will be filled by winners of the Eastern College Athletic Conference playoffs this week in New York City, Springfield, Mass.; Buffalo, N.Y. and Morgantown, W.Va.

The NCAA will extend invitations to a fistful of teams today, probably leaving room for runnersup from the Atlantic Coast Conference and South-eastern Conference.

The ACC boasts four nationally-ranked teams—No. 2 Maryland; No. 8 North Carolina State; No. 12 North Carolina and No. 14 Clemson. The SEC is blessed with two ranked clubs—No. 6 Kentucky and No. 7 Alabama. It's virtually certain that two teams from each of those leagues will go to the NCAA's post-season party.

The remaining independent berths will be filled by such national powerhouses as No. 13

Creighton, No. 16 Notre Dame and Cincinnati, a team of stature if not ranking.

Other teams under probable consideration include: Memphis State, Stetson, Utah State, Oral Roberts, South Carolina and Southern Illinois.

Conference champions who have already automatically qualified for the NCAA playoffs include: No. 1-ranked Indiana in the Big Ten; Penn in the Ivy League; Louisville in the Missouri Valley; Arizona State in the Western Athletic Conference; Nevada-Las Vegas in the West Coast Athletic Conference and Montana in the Big Sky. San Diego State will represent the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference since champion Long Beach State is on probation and cannot play in post-season competition.

The ACC, Ohio Valley and Southern Conference are holding playoffs this week to determine champions.

Furman and William and Mary will play tonight for the Southern Conference

What Is A Realtor? . . Here's The Answer

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles about Realtors and the Real Estate Business in general. Readers are urged to consult with a local member of the Murray-Calloway County Board of Realtors concerning specific questions on Real Estate.)

What is a Realtor? If your answer is, "A person engaged in the real estate business," you're only partly right.

Some background information about the term, and a brief look at more than 65 years of history that has gone into its development, should help in understanding its significance to America's property owners.

A Realtor is a professional in real estate who subscribes to a strict Code of Ethics as a member of the Murray-Calloway Board, the Kentucky Association of Realtors and the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS.

The term Realtor, like an established brand name, is a registered trademark. Both homebuyer and seller can have confidence in those who use the term, because only a person who has qualified for membership may do so. So "Realtor" protects the public as well as other members of the National Association of Realtors.

"Realtor" designates a person in the real estate business who is affiliated with well organized real estate activities. They have available to them the accumulated knowledge of more than 65 years of education, experience, and research in real estate business methods.

And, most important, Realtors have pledged to adhere to a code governing their business conduct, their relations with each other, and their relations with the public.

However, all of this didn't just happen. It is the result of years of development and struggle.

Founded in Chicago in 1908, the National Association of Realtors is the nation's largest trade and professional group, serving nearly half a million members in more than 1,650 local boards and 50 state associations.

The first legal step toward professional status for the real estate business was taken in 1917, when California adopted the first real estate law. Since then, all states and the District of Columbia have enacted license laws.

In 1923, the Association published one of the first textbooks on real estate, which has been followed by a continuous stream of books written in the field.

The Association's library, the largest of its kind in the world, owns more than 12,000 separate book titles, over 200 regularly received periodicals and a miscellaneous file of some 70,000 items. The library is located in the Association's Chicago headquarters.

The promotion of college level courses in real estate has been a significant contribution of the National Association. Unheard of a few decades ago, such courses now are offered at more than 500 colleges and universities, some of which offer graduate degrees in the discipline.

Since 1923, the Association has made periodic studies of the real estate and mortgage markets. The Department of Economics and Research of the National Association undertakes comprehensive studies. The Department is located in the National Association's Washington, D. C., offices.

Also located in Washington is the Association's Department of Government Affairs, which maintains continuing contact with all branches of the federal government, and consults with officials on matters relating to real estate.

It is perhaps in this capacity that the National Association best serves the public: by speaking for the property owners of America in advocating or opposing certain legislation for the public good.

The National Association has been historically active in the development of government programs to make home ownership possible for increasing numbers of families, and in easing the impact of recurring shortages of mortgage money. Its leadership was instrumental in developing the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the Home Loan Bank System, the mortgage insurance program of the FHA, and the Federal National Mortgage Association.

Over the years, the Association has kept pace with the growing trend toward specialization in the real estate field by establishing nine affiliated institutes, societies and councils.

These organizations are the American Chapter of the International Real Estate Federation; the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers; the American Society of Real Estate Counselors; the Institute of Real Estate Management; the National Institute of Farm and Land Brokers; the National Institute of Real Estate Brokers, and educational arm of the National Association; the Real Estate Securities and Syndication Institute; the Society of Industrial REALTORS; and the Women's Council of Realtors.

The philosophy of the National Association is to serve the real estate needs of all Americans through its Realtor and Realtor-Associate members, state associations and member boards. This philosophy is two-fold in concept:

The National Association of Realtors provides leadership and direction to its member Realtors and Realtor-Associates in the fields of real estate education, legislative affairs, civic affairs, public relations, advertising, and professional standards.

In its service to the general public, the National Association of Realtors strives, through its members, to improve communities by providing leadership and encouraging respect for the ownership of real estate.

The Association cooperates with other associations in working toward the growth and stability of the national economy, its resources, and the American social structure. And — perhaps most importantly — the National Association guards the proficiency and ethical standards of its members, so that the public can continue to have confidence in the term Realtor.

Nashville Police Consider Clairvoyant In Search For Missing Nine-Year-Old Girl

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Unable to turn up leads in the week-old search for a missing nine-year-old girl, Nashville police are considering asking the help of a clairvoyant.

On Feb. 25, Marcia Trimble disappeared from her Nashville home after telling her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trimble, that she was delivering a box of Girl Scout cookies to a neighbor.

When she was last seen about 5:30 p.m. last Tuesday, Marcia was dressed lightly for the cool evening.

Police Lt. Fred Cobb said he had been in contact with the wife of M. B. Daykshorn, New York, a reputed clairvoyant.

"We're at a loss," Cobb said Wednesday night. "Mr. Daykshorn was recommended by a caller from Bowling Green, Ky. and we've read a book about him, 'My Passport Says Clairvoyant' by Russell Felton.

"I talked to his wife tonight and plan to call him in the morning. We're just in the preliminary stages on this, we haven't got it worked out.

"The Chief has not put his stamp of approval on it yet, and we're not sure how the family would react."

Police, meanwhile, continued to comb the neighborhood around the Trimble House with the help of two, specially trained German shepherds.

"We don't have anything," said Maj. George Currey. "We're just hoping that some of the calls coming in will help us find her."

"Until we find some physical evidence or some trace of her, there's not much else to do."

The dogs and their trainer, Tom McGinn of Philadelphia, were flown to Nashville Tuesday at the Trimble's request.

Police have also released two composite drawings of men wanted for questioning in connection with the case. One, a thin-faced man, was seen driving recklessly through the neighborhood on the night of Marcia's disappearance.

Exxon Declares West Kentucky Well Is 'Dry'

SEBREE, Ky. (AP) — Exxon U.S.A. has declared its $1.5 million deep well in Western Kentucky a "dry hole," but a company official says the odds weren't good for the exploratory well to pay off anyway.

"The chances of finding anything in a wildcat operation are one in nine," said H. W. Beathard of Exxon's New Orleans office. "The odds of finding enough gas or oil to make production profitable are one in 40."

Exxon said Wednesday the well was sunk to 14,340 feet before the drill hit the "base-ment," the level below which oil isn't found. The well was drilled about 20 miles south of Henderson.

Instruments indicated no commercial quantities of oil or gas at the deeper levels, said Paul H. Dudley, manager of Exxon's Southeast Exploration Division.

The company will be testing the shallower depths for another week, he said.

Exxon said it was trying to find new deep natural-gas reserves.

The well was completed just over three months after drilling began in late November. It had been expected to take as long as six months.

Beathard said the drilling went quickly because crews didn't run into unexpected problems and were using one of the biggest rigs in the country.

The rig, 174 feet high, was powered by three 1,000-horsepower engines and could drill to depths of 30,000 feet.

Texas Gas Transmission of Owensboro sank a similar well in Grayson County — 70 miles west of the Exxon well — but found it to be a "dry hole" in February.

State Farm Bureau Members To Meet With Huddleston

WASHINGTON (AP) — A delegation of Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation members, in Washington for an annual meeting with government leaders, planned to meet today with Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz to discuss problems facing farmers.

Five members of the delegation had a short meeting scheduled with President Ford.

The delegation, comprised of about 150 Kentucky farmers and their wives, talked with Kentucky Sens. Walter "Dee" Huddleston and Wendell Ford on Wednesday. They questioned the senators about such issues as aid to Cambodia, welfare recipients and consumer protection agencies in addition to talking about farm problems.

One of the farmers, Robert R. Bush of Campbellsburg, Ky., asked the senators' positions on future aid to Cambodia and South Vietnam. Both said they were opposed to further aid to either country.

Huddleston and Ford also said they favored an increase in the government-backed program on tobacco prices.

Huddleston said he thought a $1.10 to $1.15 per pound price support would be adequate, and Ford agreed.

Ford, replying to a question on the nation's fuel supply, noted that 450 energy-related bills were introduced last year but that only 41 became law.

"And I don't know that any of them did a dad-blamed thing to make this country self-sufficient," he added.

Recession Has Arrived, Even At Palm Springs

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Kay Obergel is serving caviar mousse instead of straight caviar. Jeannie Levitt sends spring flowers instead of orchids with thank-you notes. And Nancy Littleton has canceled her summer suite at the Hotel De Paris in Monte Carlo.

The recession has come to Palm Springs.

True, there are no breadlines beneath the immaculately trimmed palms and no apple sellers outside Bergdorf's or Saks on Canon Drive. But, to hear the residents of this desert spa tell it, things are tight.

For instance, Rosalie Hearst, widow of publisher George Randolph Hearst Sr., recently moved into a house half the size of her old one.

"The other house (of 10,000 square feet) was just too big for one person to rattle around in," she explains.

Nancy Holmes, who has apartments here and in New York, a chateau in Switzerland, a flat in London and an island off Turkey, says she used to lease the residences she wasn't using.

"But now no one wants them," she complains.

"They're too expensive and I'm stuck with the upkeep."

Palm Springs caterers say the trend is away from large dinner parties to intimate gatherings of as few as 12.

At a recent dinner party for Greek artist Vassilis Lambrinos, Kay Obergel, whose husband owns a pharmaceutical firm, told the caterer to skip the New York steak in favor of beef stew.

"Instead of serving caviar with cocktails, I now serve caviar mousse," she adds.

In another corner-cutter, Mrs. Obergel had a full-length evening coat made, but added badger collar and cuffs that she already had.

"The coat cost me about $450," she says. "Had I bought a new, fur-trimmed evening coat, the cost would have been over $1,000."

If the severity of all this has still failed to touch a responsive chord, consider the story told by Greek yacht broker Constantine Nicoloudis.

He says three Palm Springs couples contacted him in Athens recently about chartering an 80-foot yacht for a summer cruise through the Aegean.

Pension Plans Folding At A Higher Rate Than In Past

WASHINGTON (AP) — Private pension plans are folding at a slightly higher rate than in the past, with the slumping economy apparently a greater factor than the strict new federal pension law.

In the first six months since the new law took effect last Sept. 2, a total of 879 plans have ended operation, according to their notifications to the new Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp.

That's an annual rate about one-sixth higher than the number of plan terminations in 1972 when the labor and treasury departments studied previous plan shutdowns.

That study of what happens to workers' benefits when their pension plans fold was one element leading to passage of the pension revision law last year.

The Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp. to insure worker benefits and set stricter standards in a number of areas.

For example, the new law requires that an employee receive rights to some or all of available pension benefits after fewer years of service than had previously been the case.

The person who acts as the fiduciary or manager of a pension plan must meet stricter standards for managing the plan. The law also requires employers to set aside funds for future pension payments as soon as the employees earn pension credits. It also mandates extensive reporting to the Labor Department.

There are about 350,000 private pension plans in the United States.

Before the law was enacted, there was some speculation that the tougher standards would lead some pension plans, particularly those of small employers, to shut down rather than improve operations.

A random selection of termination notices filed with the pension guaranty corporation, however, mostly put the blame on economic conditions.

For example:

—A Connecticut mechanical contractor cited "adverse business conditions" for the demise of a 5-year-old pension plan.

—A New York clothier's notice said the plan sponsor is in the hands of creditors.

—A Georgia auto dealer cited economic conditions and possible corporate bankruptcy.

—A small Los Angeles firm said it is operating at a loss.

—An Indiana clothing firm said fund assets were principally in declining stocks and bonds. "As these values decrease, the ability of the plan to pay benefits will also decrease," the notice said.

Other reasons such as sale of a business, death of an owner, merging of one plan into another and inside fighting also were given.

Only occasionally was the new law mentioned.

A New Jersey firm simply cited "economic conditions and complexity of the new law." A company official declined to elaborate in an interview.

A Washington, D.C., lighting company said it was ending its plan covering nine workers because "it is not feasible for us to comply with all the regulations."

An official of the firm, who asked that his name not be used, said he opposed having to include young, short-term employees in the pension plan.

We consider ourselves specialists in getting you and your family in the right boat - A quality boat that will give you years of wonderful service - Many, many happy hours of pure, clean, fresh air pleasure and long and lingering memories to think back on years later.

Unhappy, dissatisfied customers? We just don't have any!!! We don't say that everything we sell is perfect but we do say that whatever is wrong we make right!

If we have a malfunction we fix it - just that simple. First we start with a quality product - then after we service it, we water test it - Make corrections and adjustments and test drive it again. This makes for happy customers. That's why our customers are pleased to "Tell em where they got it"!!!

Poor quality at a low price can often be a very poor bargain. May we have the opportunity to show you what we have to offer.

Take a demonstration ride and drive on the water to see if it suits you and your needs.

We have some real nice stern drives both in bow riders and closed bow hulls, outboards and of course the incomparable Flote Bote Pontoon boats for camping, skiing, picnicking or cruising.

Take a look - take a ride and drive and see if one of these just might turn up your happiness a bit!

Drinking Water Official To Work On Federal Rules

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The head of the state Division of Sanitary Engineering has been named to a 15-member committee to draft federal safe drinking water regulations.

Nick Johnson, who has directed the state sanitary engineering division since 1959, was named to the committee by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), which will pay the expenses of all committee members.

The group will work on preparation of operation, maintenance, treatment, site selection and surveillance regulations required by a federal safe drinking water law which was passed in December.

Other members of the group include representatives from EPA headquarters and regional offices, other states and utility companies.

The first meeting is scheduled for Feb. 21 in Washington, D. C. The group will continue to meet almost monthly until regulations are drafted—probably two years from now.

The Division of Sanitary Engineering is a part of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

What To Do In March

March is the dawn of the garden year and the month in which winter-weary gardeners first begin to see daylight. When the first really warm days appear and spring peepers start calling from the swamps, the temptation is to rush out, start removing mulches, and putting seeds in the ground.

But in this respect, March should be a month of restraint. Without a doubt, there will be some setbacks before Old Man Winter finally departs. Premature plants and those not protected by mulch may get frostbit.

There are, however, some vegetables that can usually be safely planted in March, provided the soil is dry and the somewhat fickle weather is amenable. Horticulturists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture say that, in central Kentucky, peas and spinach can be planted after the first of the month; turnips, radishes, collards, beets, and onion sets around the middle of March; and carrots, parsnips, kale, and lettuce in the latter part of the month. The earliest safe planting dates for vegetables are usually about 10 days earlier than this for western Kentucky and 10 days later for the eastern part of the state.

Mid-March is also a good time to plant Irish potatoes, and an old planting rule is to get them in the ground sometime during the "dark nights" of this month.

Also, if time begins to hang heavy, the horticulturists say March is a good time to finish pruning fruit trees, roses, grapes, and certain shrubs that bear their blooms on "new wood," or on the current season's growth. Some of these are snowball, hydrangea, hypericum, and caryopteris. While working in the orchard, March is the time to start a spray program beginning with a commercial dormant oil spray to control scale insects. It will also be a good time too, to work on the lawn. Bare patches on bluegrass lawns can be reseeded. The horticulturists recommend 1 to 2 pounds of Ken-Blue variety per 1,000 square feet. For lawns not fertilized last fall, and if the fertilizer is available, 5 pounds of 20-10-5 or 10 pounds of 10-10-10 are recommended per 1,000 square feet.

March is also a good time to put crabgrass preventative on the lawn—the horticulturists say this should be done, if possible, before April 10. And, to rid lawns of broadleaf weeds, apply 2-4-D this month. For details on using these materials, and for other information on lawn and garden care, check with your local county Extension agent.

In March, too, the restless gardener can calm himself and profitably pass off the time by getting his garden tools together and in good repair. The garden sprayer should be checked and cleaned; if new parts are needed, these should be secured before aphids and other insects start working on early plants.

Annual flowers like begonias, impatiens, verbenas, and vincas can be started indoors from seed; gladiolus bulbs cleaned; and dahlia and canna tubers taken out of storage, divided and made ready for mid-May planting.

With fertilizer in short supply and it therefore being necessary to conserve this material, soil tests by all means should be made during this month. This will help the gardener make the right decision as to what fertilizer is needed and how much.

Along with these recommendations for things to do in March, an old farm almanac lists some others that might be followed with profit. Make and erect some blue bird houses, says the almanac. Clean house, buy a new hat, read Psalm 122, get up early in the morning, drink sassafras tea, show Billy how to fly a kite, and go to church every Sunday.

Friend Found To Have Committed No Wrong In Legislative Votes

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Black lung lawyer Kelsey Friend has been found to have committed "no actionable wrong" in voting in the state senate in 1974 for a bill involving the fees for such work.

The legislature's Board of Ethics sent a letter to that effect Wednesday to State Sen. William L. Sullivan, D-Henderson, as president pro tem of the senate. The board, comprised of five legislators and two public members, thus concluded a probe it began several months ago.

One public member of the board, Shelby McCallum, who is chairman and a former house speaker, was absent

Wednesday and the other, Frankfort newspaper publisher Albert Dix, had to leave before the Friend case came up.

Friend's five-man law firm received more than $1 million in black lung case fees in each of 1972 and 1973 and $572,900—tops in the state—in 1974. The firm handled 287 such cases in 1973 and 123 in 1974; the 1974 law went into effect last June.

A suspicion of conflict of interest involving Friend resulted from his work and vote for a workmen's compensation law that some critics said had the effect of raising lawyers' fees for black lung cases.

Friend told the board by letter the 1974 law actually lowered such lawyer's fees because it set a maximum of $6,500 in contested cases and $750 in uncontested cases. The previous law allowed a maximum of up to 20 per cent of the total award in black lung benefits to the coalminer, which could allow a much higher fee.

Friend took issue with press reports that the Workmen's Compensation Board had adopted a policy, prior to enactment of the 1974 law, of limiting a lawyer's fee to no more than $5,100.

"The Workmen's Compensation Board has never, as far as I know, established such a policy," Friend asserted.

"In fact, after Senate Bill 114 (the 1974 law) became effective, they allowed the maximum that could be allowed under (it), $6,500, which would certainly indicate" the board had no such policy.

Ed James, acting director of the Workmen's Compensation

Board, said Wednesday he was not with the board during the earlier period in question and so could not say whether the board had a maximum fee then.

J. Keller Whitaker, the long-time former director of the board, could not be reached at his Letcher County home and board chairman Shelby Benton, Owensboro, declined to comment. He said it was the board's policy not to say anything to the press except at its regular meetings in Frankfort.

State Sen. Kenneth Gibson, D-Madisonville, who presided over the ethics board meeting Wednesday as vice chairman, said later several black lung attorneys told the board they would rather practice such cases under the old law.

Friend told the ethics board he felt he was "legally and morally right" in voting for the 1974 law and had done no wrong.

Would you help this kid?

When the dam broke at Buffalo Creek, West Virginia, a lot of people weren't as lucky as this little guy.

Jamie and the rest of the Mosley family made it up the hill just in the nick of time. Seconds later, a wall of water swept all their earthly possessions away.

Here you see Jamie in the Red Cross shelter, thinking it all over.

One look at that face, and we're awfully glad we were there to help.

Every year, you know, Red Cross touches the lives of millions upon millions of Americans. Rich. Poor. Average. Black. White. Christian and Jew. With support. With comfort. With a helping hand when they need it.

So when you open your heart, with your time or your money, you can be certain it's in the right place.

Israeli Troops Wipe Out Band Of Guerrillas

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli soldiers captured an eighth Arab terrorist and saved him from an angry mob today hours after he and his comrades blew up part of a small Tel Aviv hotel, killing at least nine other persons, the Israeli command said.

Seven hours after troops stormed the seafloor Savoy Hotel near the U.S. Embassy and killed seven guerrillas, soldiers searching through the explosion debris flushed out the eighth terrorist and seized him after a brief exchange of gunfire.

A mob of Israelis enraged over the latest terrorist attack, the biggest ever in the heart of a major Israeli city, tried to break in the doors of the ambulance to get at the captured guerrilla, but the vehicle sped away.

The latest shooting flared minutes before Premier Yitzhak Rabin inspected the hotel, where Israeli troops stormed the building before dawn following a six-hour siege. Two of the dead were reported to be Israeli soldiers. There was still no identification of any foreign casualties.

The guerrillas had held at least 30 hostages in the hotel, but it was not known if there were any Americans among them.

"I saw two men on a rooftop about 150 yards from the hotel, shooting into the street," said a woman who had been looking out of her kitchen window before the second outburst of gunfire broke out. "One of them was wearing a khaki shirt, like a military shirt."

The raiders presumably came down the coast from the Lebanese border, 75 miles north of Tel Aviv. They stormed ashore shortly before midnight and ran through the streets, firing and throwing grenades at people on the streets and at a crowd leaving a movie theater.

A lawyer who was driving through the shabby district told of being hit in both legs and of crawling away.

Rushing into the Savoy, the raiders herded the guests and others in the hotel to the top floor and continued to fire from there and from the roof.

"The terrorists fired at least a couple of thousand rounds, I would estimate," said Harold Adams, a tourist from Mission Hills, Calif., and a Vietnam veteran. "I saw three men on the hotel roof and then two others running in a different direction, firing all the time. Then I got the hell out of there."

Using an Israeli girl among the hostages for their interpreter, the guerrillas sent out demands for a plane to take them and the hostages to Damascus. Meanwhile troops in full battle gear sealed off the streets around the hotel. A military helicopter flew overhead, and a ship offshore illuminated the building with a searchlight.

Defense Minister Shimon Peres hurried to the command post the army set up nearby. Premier Yitzhak Rabin spent the night at military headquarters.

The guerrillas freed one wounded hostage, a German tourist, in exchange for two Israelis who volunteered to take his place.

The army's assault on the hotel began at 5:15 a. m., after a long lull and six hours after the amphibious invasion.

As red and green flares broke overhead, the besieging troops opened up with automatic weapons and bazooka rockets to cover an assault squad that rushed through the main entrance of the hotel. Other troops scrambled across to the roof on ladders stretched from neighboring buildings.

Before the troops could reach the hostages, a big explosion caved in the third floor of the hotel and blew away the walls.

The attack in Tel Aviv, Israel's largest city, came as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was preparing to set out on a new shuttle between Cairo and Jerusalem in an attempt to work out an agreement for another Israeli withdrawal in the Sinai desert.

There was speculation that Arafat hoped to sabotage such an agreement since it is not likely to include Israeli agreement to his demand: recognition of the Palestinians' right to set up their own state in the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

There was no immediate comment on the raid from Kissinger or his aides in London.

Two Injured In Accident On Wednesday

Two persons were injured in a two-car accident at 12th and Chestnut Streets Wednesday afternoon, according to Murray City Police officers who investigated the incident.

Cars driven by Nolan R. Damesworth, of Ecorse, Mich., and Virginia L. Laporte, of Romulus, Mich., collided at the intersection of 12th and Chestnut Streets, according to police.

Charles E. Byers and Nancy Byers, both of Romulus, were treated and released at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital for lacerations and contusions, according to hospital authorities.

Officers said the Damesworth car was going north on 641 and the Laporte car was going south, making a left turn, when the accident occurred.

Philadelphia Milkmen Now Deliver Other Items

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — When the milkman comes to the doorway in the Philadelphia area, he may be delivering more than dairy products. He may also offer panty hose, or other items.

Several dairy firms which decided that the home distribution of dairy products did not provide enough revenue are now also offering baked goods, candy, gift items, cosmetics and other household products.

"Anything to make a dollar," explains William Harbison of Harbison's Dairy.

"My customers like the new products and it's more profit for us," said Bill Hawkins, for 36 years a home deliveryman for Sealtest.

"And there's something else, too. People are short of cash today and they can put the pan-
